

HR is the last thing you need to worry about. With StratEx, it is.

It isn't easy being in charge of a growing company, especially one with big dreams. It's so easy to get bogged down in day-to-day employee management that you can lose track of the big picture. That's where StratEx comes in.

StratEx for
Small-to-Mid-Sized Businesses

Even your biggest HR problem is no problem at all.

StratEx starts with people – our account specialists understand the challenges you face managing employees in a dynamic work environment – and we’re driven to help you succeed.

The StratEx platform automates employment services management to make things even easier – including applicant tracking, onboarding, benefits administration, time and labor management, performance management and payroll. Our state-of-the-art technology is highly configurable and easy-to-use. An account manager will help you adapt the platform to suit your challenges, while ensuring consistent process, documentation and follow-through for every aspect of HR.

StratEx was designed with you in mind – we’ll show you how your company’s data can be uploaded and ready to manage on week one. If problems arise (either a technical issue or a specific HR concern), a dedicated account manager is always available to help you make the right decision.
